Our supply chain includes procurement of agency staff, produce, consumables, facilities maintenance, utilities and waste management. We are committed to ensuring there is no modern slavery and/or human trafficking in our supply chains or in any part of our business. Our anti-slavery policy reflects our commitment to acting ethically and with integrity in all our business relationships and to enforcing effective systems and controls to ensure slavery and human trafficking is not taking place anywhere in our supply chains. We make sure our suppliers are aware of our policies and promote the same high standards.

As a part of our initiative to identify and mitigate the risk of human trafficking in our supply chains, we have a due-diligence procedures. Our procedures are designed to:

- establish and assess areas of potential risk in our business and supply chains
- monitor potential risk areas in our business and our supply chains
- reduce the risk of slavery and human trafficking occurring in our business and supply chains
- provide adequate protection for whistle-blowers

Harrison Catering Services regularly evaluates the nature and extent of its exposure to the risk of modern slavery occurring in its supply chains by annual reviews of all supplies.

Where we have identified a potential risk, we will not support or deal with such business. A zero-tolerance approach will be reinforced in all those in our supply chains and we expect and request all those in our supply chains and contractors to comply with our values.

Our employees are encouraged to identify and report any potential breaches of the company's anti-slavery and human trafficking policy. Following our review of our actions this financial year to prevent slavery and human trafficking from occurring in our business and supply chains, we intend to continue to monitor our compliance at all levels of our business by continuous risk assessment and training.

This policy statement is made pursuant to section 54 (1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and constitutes Harrison Catering Services' slavery and human trafficking statement for the previous financial year commencing April 2017 and ending March 2018.
